1400-Year-old soldier

ONE of the oldest known soldiers in the North-east is to go on "guard duty" at the headquarters of Grampian Regional Council.

He is a Pictish warrior carved, it is reckoned, 1400 years ago on a large stone.

It was found in a field at the farm of Barfiat, Rhynie, 10 years ago. Since it was discovered along with another stone, it has been stored by the regional council and yesterday their planning, property and development committee agreed it should go on permanent display in the Woodhill House vestibule in Aberdeen.

Significance

Members were told agreement had now been reached with the owner of the land where the stones were found, for them to be acquired by the council, and the only matter to be resolved was a place to keep them where they would be secure and where there were no severe fluctuations in temperature.

He has been described as a "warrior" because of the axe-like implement on his shoulder. But equally he may be one of the first golfers to have played in Grampian — though he has a terrible grip and nobody knows of Rhynie ever having a golf course!

● LEFT: The "Warrior Stone", carved about 1400 years ago and found in a field at Rhynie, is to go on show at Grampian Regional Council's headquarters. The stone is 1.78m. long.

□ US INDUSTRIALIST Mr Armand Hammer — 90-year-old chairman of Occidental Petroleum — scored a hole in one for Western golfers yesterday when he announced he would finance the Soviet Union's first golf course. The par-72 course will stretch over 6800 yards at the Nakhbino sports centre 18 miles outside Moscow. But it will be open for use only by diplomats and other foreigners. Soviet officials were on hand to explain the fine points of a game once deemed too bourgeois to be played in their country. "Golf is a sports game which originated in Scotland," an official of Moscow's diplomatic service body said.

POSTCARD CORNER - GOLF COURSE MAP CARDS

1907 (June 8)

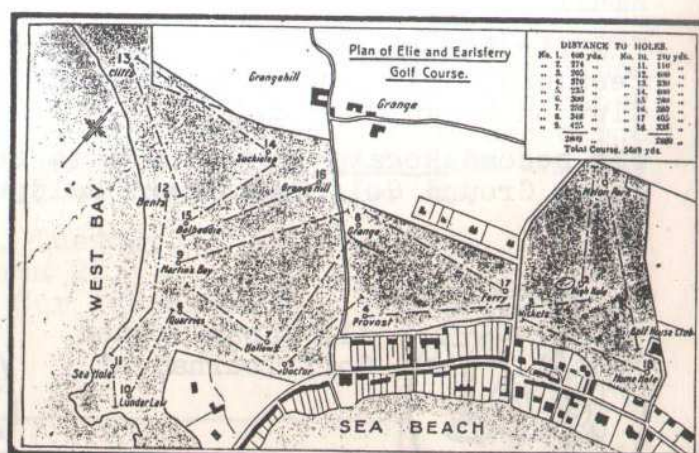

Braid Hills G.C. Map card sent from Edinburgh to Spean Bridge. This card was printed by W and A.K. Johnston Ltd, Edinburgh & London. They have used their own O.S. (Ordnance Survey) Maps to outline the course coloring it green, with roads yellow.

Note distance added 2 3/4 miles.

1909 (August 13)

Elie and Earlsferry G.C. Map card sent from Elie to Portrush (Fire). Prinetr unknown but shows the map taken from old Town map, probably from the Statistical Records - for the County of Fife.

The course is colored green, with roads yellow. It shows a table of yardage and all the holes named.

c. 1970

Circular post card produced by St. Andrews Woollen Mills it shows view of their shop opposite the 18th hole and a layout map of the Old Course.

The interesting thing about this post card is that it is contrary to Post Office regulations due to its circular shape and was withdrawn from use by the company.

c.1910

Split type post card showing Tain G.C. (Ross-shire), with view at the top and a map at the bottom. The map would be the original layout as leased from Balnagowan Estate, once the largest in Britain covering well over 500000 acres. Map colored green by hand.

Royal Dornoch just over the Firth.

SMALL COMMEMORATIVE DATESTAMPS by Cora Collins and Y. Matsubayashi

In addition to the scenic cancellations depicting golf, the Japan Postal Services Ministry has recently issued two small commemorative datestamps. Whereas scenic cancellations are used to publicize a geographical area and used for extended periods, the small commemorative datestamps are used to commemorate specific events. The small commemorative datestamps or kogata-in are generally 32mm in diameter, and are used for very brief periods—one or two days.

Commemorative datestamps come large and small (36mm and 32mm). The size of the datestamps provided often show the relative importance of the event. An event of National significance might receive a large datestamp as opposed to a local event which would most likely have a small datestamp.

The first kogata-in for golf was for the 56th Japan Professional Golf Tournament held at the Ehime Golf Country Club on 21 July 1988.

The second kogata-in was used to commemorate the - All Japan Ground Golf Tournament held at Tomari on 20 August 1988.

ECHO CARDS

by Cora Collins and Yutaka Matsubayashi

Japan's Postal Services Ministry began issuing special design postal cards with paid advertising in 1981. The Ministry adopted the popular name Eko or Echo as the official name for the cards saying "The effectiveness of the advertisements on the cards is reverberating like an echo in the hills", and moreover eko "includes the idea of ekonomi (economy) from the 5yen discount on the price of each card.

The denomination of each advertising card is the domestic post card rate, currently 40 yen. Echo cards are sold by the post offices at a discount of 12½%—a 40 yen card costs the purchaser 35 yen. The discount of 5 yen plus another 4 yen paid by the advertiser. Not more than four inks can be used in an advertisement, and the total design size must not exceed 1/3rd of the card. Except for 1981, the Ministry has issued over 400 cards per year.

Three categories of Echo cards exist—national, quasi-national and prefectural. The number issued can range from 50,000 for a prefectural issue to 20 million for national cards. A large national firm such as Japan Air or Honda would appear on a national card whereas a golf or country club would appear on issues of one or two prefectures. The category of the Echo card also determines whether it will be sold nationally or solely within the prefecture. If the same design is sponsored in more than one prefecture, the card will be sold in more than one.

For the first four years, all Echo cards had the same imprinted stamp design showing eight tall buildings in the Shinjuku area of Tokyo. On July 1, 1985 the Ministry introduced two new designs. One design is a geometric pattern called eko pattan (echo pattern) and a second shows three stylized birds flying out of an open envelope. Advertisers may now choose which imprint stamp will be used.

In addition to mint cards, Echo cards are also available with a spec-imen (mihon) overprint. The following examples with the Mihon characters - one done with a broad brush stroke (left) and the other done with a thin stroke (centre). The reverse side of the cards (right) provides information regarding the issue. Both date and day of issue are contained in the top line. This translates to:

- 1st line - sale: November 1, 1983, Tuesday.
- 2nd line - Reference number, Saitama 22.
- 3rd line - Sponsor, Saitama Small Car Association.

The following is an illustrated list of the Echo cards related to Golf, either depicting the sport or sponsored by a facility which has golf as an available sport. One would need to read the Japanese characters in order to identify the cards which do not clearly portray the sport. All the golf related Echo cards to date have been prefectural issues.

ゴルフ 宇部カントリー倶楽部

〒 767 山口県宇部市 宇部カントリー倶楽部 (0836) 2211

by Stuart R. MacKenzie

The Carrolls Irish Open formerly Carrolls International, commenced in 1963 and started using hand cancels in 1976. To date seven design types have been used, always found struck in violet ink, with the exception of 1983 when black ink was used!

In general the hand cancels are used during the four days play of the Tournament and I have listed what dates I have recorded. Play in the earlier years 1976-79 commenced on the Thursday with a Sunday finish, with a Wednesday start during 1980-82 (Saturday finish), reverting to Thursday for 1983-84. The reason for mentioning this is that the dates on the series of postmarks I have recorded calculate that there was a start date on Tuesday (1985-86) and a Sunday (1987) this might be the case, but requires confirmation in that the dates I have recorded are for 'Practice Days'? The date for the 1988 Tournament is a Thursday.
